

News Break > New York > New York > Chinese-American gro...

Chinese-American group rips Carranza over anti-Asian bias training

New York, NY | New York Post | 2d

A Chinese-American advocacy group says that having city Schools Chancellor Richard Carranza oversee instruction to fight bias against Asians “is like having the KKK run training on anti-black bigotry.”

Read Full Story >

You may also like

CarranzaDOEKKKDepartment of Education

Related

New York, NY | policemag.com | 1h

New York Officer Shot Multiple Times Expected to Fully Recover

New York, NY Newsletter

We will send daily local briefing to your mailbox.

Email Address

Subscribe

An officer with the Tonawanda (NY) Police Department was shot multiple times early Tuesday morning, but is expected to fully recover from his wounds. According to NBC News, police say officers responded to reports of a "drive-by" shooting and as they arrived they encountered a male subject and asked to speak to him.

Like

Comment

Share

New York, NY

News 12

1h

Former New York Giant Victor Cruz donates Chromebooks to Paterson schools

Former New York Giant Victor Cruz teamed up with News 12 parent company Altice USA to donate Chromebooks to the Paterson Public Schools. When the COVID-19 pandemic forced the district to close in March, students were sent home with paper packets for manual learning.

7

2

Share

New York, NY

NY Daily News

1h

Amid coronavirus crisis, 'Gossip Girl' reboot won't arrive until 2021

Us

Even though HBO Max is officially launching Wednesday, not all shows are ready to go. One show in limbo is the reboot of the popular CW show “Gossip Girl,” which was scheduled to begin filming in March.

Like

Comment

Share

New York, NY

 |

kyma.com

 |

1h

Central Park confrontation goes viral

NEW YORK, N.Y. (KYMA, KECY/NBC News) - A confrontation in New York's Central Park goes viral after a white woman is caught on camera calling the police on a black man. She claims the man was harrassing her and her dog, but the video tells another story. Now she's issuing an apology .

Like

Comment

Share

Jets X-Factor

New York, NY

 |

1h

Follow

New York Jets QB Joe Flacco not expected to be ready for season opener

Us

Newly signed Jets quarterback Joe Flacco says he will not be ready in time for Week 1. Joe Flacco is set to become by far the most accomplished and skilled quarterback to serve as Sam Darnold's backup, but he will not available from the get-go.

Like

Comment

Share

Financial World

New York, NY | 1h

Follow

New York's Warner Music seeks to raise $1.8 billion on 'June 2' Nasdaq IPO

On Tuesday, Warner Music Group Inc., the New York-based American multinational entertainment and record label conglomerate headquartered in Los Angeles, said that the recording industry titan had been looking to raise as much as $1.82 billion on its US IPO (Initial Public Offering), marking up the likely largest NYSE IPO thus far this year as the pandemic-driven rout in global stocks had weighed on IPO market with only a handful of public listings mostly from biotech an...

Like

Comment

Share

New York, NY | Buffalo News | 1h

Western New York on track to reopen hair salons, stores and offices on June 2

Western New York is on track to reopen hair salons, retail stores and offices as early as June 2, Lt. Gov. Kathy Hochul said Tuesday – so long as a rash of reported Memorial Day gatherings don't spike the region's falling Covid-19 rates.

Like

Comment

Share

New York, NY

New York Post

1h

Poetic justice: NY's arcane election laws ending careers of two bumbling incumbents

For decades, insiders used New York's arcane laws on petitioning to frustrate outsider candidacies. So it's poetic justice that the state's highest court just knocked off two incumbent assemblywomen from the June ballot.

1

Comment

Share

Yorktown-Somers Patch

New York, NY | 1h

Follow

Six Major Storms Could Slam East Coast This Hurricane Season

HUDSON VALLEY, NY — The brutal hurricane season expected to hit the East Coast this summer could be even worse than forecasters initially predicted, with double the usual number of major hurricanes, according to the National Weather Service. The 2020 hurricane season could send as many as six major hurricanes for a total of 19 named storms hurtling up the Atlantic Ocean, according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Climate Prediction Center.

Like

Comment

Share

New York, NY

themarysue.com

21m

Amy Cooper’s Apology Is Bulls**t. She Knew Exactly What She Was Doing.

By now, you’ve likely heard about Amy “Central Park Karen” Cooper. Her name, along with the CPK moniker and about a half dozen other identifiers, have been trending all day on Twitter. This arose after a video surfaced online of Cooper, who is white, calling the police on a birdwatcher, who is Black, and who also committed the apparently egregious offense of asking her to follow some simple park rules whilst being Black.

Like

Comment

Share

New York, NY

New York Post

1h

LeBron James whiff one of many Knicks what-ifs

In a weeklong series, The Post is looking at alternate realities in New York sports. Today's edition looked at what would have happened had the Knicks drafted Steph Curry in 2009. Here are some other big Knicks what-ifs from the past 30 years:

2

Comment

Share

New York, NY

The Points Guy

1h

New York will renovate Penn Station during shelter-in-place

New York Governor Andrew Cuomo announced May 26 that the city would expedite construction on the new Empire Station at Pennsylvania Station while the city remains on coronavirus lockdown.

Like

Comment

Share

New York, NY

KPCC

1h

Feds Arrest 'The Mask Man,' New York Pharmacist Accused Of Profiteering On N95 Masks

A licensed pharmacist in New York bought up thousands of rare N95 masks and sold them at much higher prices during the COVID-19 pandemic, federal authorities said Tuesday, announcing the arrest of Richard Schirripa, a.k.a. "the Mask Man," on charges that include violating the Defense Production Act. Schirripa is accused of charging up to $25 per mask – often selling them out of his car.

Like

Comment

Share

New York, NY | wrrv.com | 1h

Millions of Cicadas Expected to Emerge After 17 Years Underground

Millions of cicadas that have been underground are expected to invade parts of the East Coast. Periodical cicada Brood IX will emerge in the spring of 2020 in North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia after spending 17 years underground. The last time this type of cicada emerged was in 2003, according to Cicada Mania.

Like

Comment

Share

New York, NY | New York Post | 1h

De Blasio's cluelessness on reopening NYC is ultimate failure of crisis leadership

New York City is in serious trouble: Its economy is collapsing under the COVID lockdown — and Mayor Bill de Blasio is totally clueless about how to reopen it. On Tuesday, he admitted City Hall has no specific date for lifting restrictions (though he's hoping it'll be some time in June) — and no firm grip whatsoever on the details of how the reopening will take place.

7

3

Share

 New York, NY | chatsports.com | 1h

Gambling Today: Will New Disinfecting Drones Expedite Return of Major Sports?

As the MLB, NHL and NBA all consider a return to action, a New York-based company is offering a solution to keep their stadiums and arena germ-free by spraying disinfectant from drones.

Like

Comment

Share

 New York, NY | NBC Washington | 1h

Therapists Offer Free Group Sessions as Pandemic Increases Mental Health Needs

Us

May is mental health awareness month and, during this COVID-19 pandemic, many are more aware of their own mental health than ever before. Medical and financial uncertainty are fueling a level of anxiety some have never experienced, but a group of local therapists is helping ease that stress — free of charge.

Like

Comment

Share

New York, NY

NewsChannel 36

1h

New York State Single-Day COVID-19 Death Toll Reaches New Low

NEW YORK, NY (WENY) - During his daily briefing on Tuesday, New York Governor Andrew Cuomo announced the state's single-day death toll reached a new low on Monday, dipping to 73. The previous low was 84 on Friday, May 22nd.

Like

Comment

Share

White Plains, NY

pix11.com

1h

Mid-Hudson region kicks off Phase 1 of reopening as business owners adjust to new normal

Us

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — Like many small business owners, New York On PAUSE left Mimi Fong in financial ruin. “We had zero business coming in while we still had rent to pay, utility, every single expense on going,” said Fong.

Like

Comment

Share

Brooklyn, NY

 | NY Daily News | 1h

'Like a living hell': Brooklyn man sent to psych ward by cops who insisted he was someone else, lawsuit claims

A routine police stop of a Brooklyn man turned into a Kafkaesque nightmare when cops insisted he wasn't who he said he was — even after he showed them his driver's license — and shipped him off to a psych ward for not knowing his name, a new lawsuit claims.

2

2

Share

Nearby Cities

Chinatown
Chelsea
Long Island City
Weehawken
Union City
West New York

Categories

Coronavirus
Traffic & Transit
Living
Lifestyle
Real Estate
Obituary

Company

Newport
Hoboken
Jersey City
Brooklyn
Guttenberg
Astoria

Crime & Safety
Weather
Accident
Municipal Sports
Education

Local News

News Break

Q

Your city or ZIP code

News

Local

Classifieds

Publishers

About

Sign in

News Break App

Mission

Contact

Careers

Legal

Do Not Sell My Info

f

in

Terms of Use

Privacy Policy

© 2020 Particle Media. All Rights Reserved.